Paravva Halli, a hardworking farmer from Basapur village, has emerged from the shadows of vision impairment with the invaluable support of the JMF and Helpage India, marking a significant turning point in her life and that of her family.

Paravva Halli, alongside her husband, Shelchappa Halli, has dedicated her life to agricultural pursuits in the fertile lands of their village. Together, they raised a family of five children, including four daughters who have been married off, and their son, Channaverappa, who remains unmarried but actively contributes to the family's farming endeavors.

Despite the bustling household and the assistance of her son, Paravva Halli found herself grappling with vision impairment, which severely hindered her ability to carry out essential farming tasks and manage household chores. With no one to provide support at home, the burden of maintaining their household fell heavily on her shoulders, adding to her struggles.

The dire situation prompted the intervention of the JMF and HelpAge India, who recognized the urgent need for medical treatment.

On March 8, 2024, Paravva Halli underwent a successful eye operation, marking a crucial milestone in her journey toward recovery.

Before the operation, Paravva Halli's vision stood at 6/24, severely impairing her ability to see clearly. However, post-operation, her vision improved significantly, offering her newfound clarity and hope for the future.

The transformative impact of the foundations' intervention extends beyond Paravva Halli's personal triumph; it rekindles optimism within her family and community. With her vision restored, Paravva Halli can once again contribute to the family's farming activities and manage household tasks with ease, alleviating the burden on her loved ones.
